

OIL TRUST MADE INDEPENDENTS SELL AT A LOSS

Forced Three Out of Business and Bought Refineries, W. W. Tarbell Says.

W. W. Tarbell, treasurer of the Pure Oil Company and the United States Pipe Line Company, took the witness stand today in the hearing of the Government's suit to dissolve the Standard Oil Company and its subsidiaries.

Mr. Tarbell said the Standard fought the United States Pipe Line at every step to prevent it from reaching the seaboard with its pipe line.

Mr. Tarbell is a brother of Miss Ida Tarbell, who has written extensively of the affairs of the Standard.

The United States Pipe Line, Mr. Tarbell said, had great difficulty in reaching Marcus Hook, Pa., its terminal. When the pipe line reached Hampton, Pa., in 1922, the Erie Railroad objected to its passing over the right of way, and at Wilkes-Barre the Pennsylvania and Lackawanna Railroad tried to prevent the pipe line passing under their tracks.

Mr. Tarbell said the National Transit and the Tidewater Pipe Line companies had secured the privilege of passing under railroad tracks.

While the independent pipe line was being constructed, he testified, the Standard cut prices and the independent companies were forced to sell refined oil under the cost of crude oil. When the independent pipe line reached Marcus Hook, the witness said, further cuts were made in prices by the Standard and three independent companies—the International Oil Company, Union Refining Company and the S. Y. Hamann Company—gave up the fight and sold out.

The Standard, he testified, obtained control of 20 per cent of the stock of the United States Pipe Line Company. Mr. Tarbell said the Standard had no interest in the Pure Oil Company.

Mr. Tarbell said that the Standard cut prices in Philadelphia so that the Pure Oil Company had to sell its product at a loss, and was finally forced to withdraw. The Standard cut prices in this city and for three years the Pure Oil Company lost money, after which the price rose, so that the company is now doing a profitable business.

He also testified that the Pure Oil Company laid out districts in which to do business so as to "keep away from certain railroads which were more to be feared because of their discriminations than the Standard Oil Company."

"Who were these discriminations in favor of?"

"The Standard Oil Company," replied Mr. Tarbell.

On account of business engagements, Mr. Tarbell will not be cross-examined until next week.

THIS IS THE WAY THE B. R. T. JAMS THEM INTO CARS

Its Line Last Year Carried 511,839,437 Persons, an Increase of 59,000,000.

The annual report of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company, just issued for the year ending June 30, 1927, shows that while the company's lines carried 511,839,437 more passengers than the year previous, the surplus was 17,000 less than that of the previous year. This is partly explained by the statement that an average of 171 more cars were run each day during the 1926-1927 period than 1925-1926, most of them being new and going into the increased expenses in operating the system.

The total income to the company from passenger traffic amounted to $18,440,983, and the total earnings for the year amounted to $13,261,587, which is an increase of $608,259 over that of the year preceding. The total surplus for the year is $2,022,325, which is an increase of more than $200,000 over the surplus of the year preceding. The total surplus for the year is $2,022,325, which is an increase of more than $200,000 over the surplus of the year preceding.

An interesting item is the amount of damage and legal fees, which is $153,114 more than last year. The exact amount paid out for damage suits is not given, but the company paid out $2,238,970. The total number of passengers carried was 511,839,437, which is an increase of more than 59,000,000. The average number of cars daily operated was 171.

The document closes with a lamentation to the effect that the bad weather which prevailed the early months of the year had a very serious effect on the small amount of business on the street car lines of Brooklyn except the Franklin, De Kalb and Smith street lines.

SUIT FOR BODIES BURIED MORE THAN 100 YEARS.
CAMPELLTON, N. B., Oct. 4.—The Franciscan Fathers of the Roman Catholic Diocese of Three Rivers have instituted proceedings to recover the bodies of several of their brethren buried in the crypt of St. James' Church in the eighteenth century, before the church was handed over to the Anglican body following the overthrow of French power in America.

The fact that the property was given to the Anglican Church by direct grant from King George III. is invoked against the interference of the court. The opinion expressed by many is that the grant from the King does not exclude the church from the jurisdiction of the courts of the land.

The youth of today is the man of to-morrow. With all that this implies to us, we foster the patronage of the youth by pleasing them. Of greatest importance to young men as far as apparel is concerned is distinctiveness. "Something different," as we interpret it, means not merely a difference of fabric or cut—but of draping and finish.
